

Television station WTKR repeatedly interrupts scheduled programs (specifically Everybody Loves Raymond) with commercials or other material. They are likewise obsessed with promoting their news staff's excellence during some of these exceedingly untimely interruptions of scheduled programs.